Blairmore Boy Slightly Wounded

In letters from Walter Howe to his parents and sisters, dated April 14, 17 and 18, he states that he had been slightly wounded. While fixing some fresh trenches with sand-bags, some snipers got the line of them and fired, smashing the fore-sight of a rifle. Two or three pieces hit him, one piece penetrating his upper lip and lodging in the gum, loosening his teeth. Another piece lodged in his lower jaw, but at time of writing he had discarded the bandage and was feeling fine. He said it makes a fellow feel like getting right at them (the Germans). He was returning to the trenches on the 19th. He wished to be remembered to all old friends. He is now in the machine-gun section of the 10th Batt., 2nd Brigade.

Hard Hit by War Tax

The war tax has struck the druggist harder than any other class of business, and it is not to be wondered at that they are strongly objecting to the tax. At first it was thought that the rich patent medicine manufacturer would pay the tax, but not so. That silly individual is not taxed at all, for the tax is only collected when the druggist sells the patent medicine. Thus the war tax is either paid by the purchaser or by the druggist and in both cases neither can afford to pay it. The imposition of the tax as it stands is wrong. The tax should be levied on the manufacturer who is quite able to pay it.

Blairmore Red Cross

NOTICE—A Red Cross Tea will be held Wednesday afternoon next, May 12th, from 3 to 5.30 o'clock, in the Thistle Club rooms. Come and bring your friends.

A goodly amount of work was accomplished at the meeting meeting on Tuesday the 4th inst. Despite the rain the workers turned out about as usual; but there are still many who have not as yet enlisted in the ranks of workers.

If there are any who contemplate giving a contribution towards the Red Cross Funds, now is the time. The treasury is absolutely empty and the demand, especially for hospital supplies, is more urgent than ever.

Terrible Effects of Poisonous Gases Upon Victims

London, April 30—A Canadian now under treatment at the base arrived eight hours after he had been caught and overcome by the fumes liberated by the Germans. He was still unconscious, but soon after being installed in the hospital revived under treatment. He was blind and for a time dumb. His blindness is only apparently temporary, purely functional and occasioned by shock, but other symptoms, the direct result of gas, are very remarkable. His tongue is swollen to nearly double its normal size, blotched with black patches, and badly ulcerated underneath. The membrane of the mouth and throat is excessively inflamed, the lungs attacked, and very severe bronchitis has set in. His pulse is no more than a faint flutter, his temperature high and respiration labored and difficult.

When after an hour or two in the hospital he came to sufficiently to be able to say something of his experiences, he said that he was involved only in the extreme edge of the gas cloud. Of a sudden he found a greenish, yellow vapor enveloping him. A couple of inhalations completely incapacitated him; his throat became constricted and the earth seemed to be spinning around him like a top. He was violently sick, his knees gave way and he rolled over on his back, three parts unconscious. He just managed to crawl feebly out of the poison zone. He remembered no more until he woke in the hospital. When he was undressed it was found that his arms and legs had turned a mottled blue, or rather violet. This was due to inhalation of the fumes, preventing proper oxidation of the blood.

Men—Girls are queer creatures; they marry the first fool who asks them, as a rule. I suppose you would do the same, wouldn't you? She—Suppose you ask me, and I'll tell you.

To Young Frenchmen

The French Consul of Calgary is inviting the Young Frenchmen born in 1897 (Class 1917) and the ones belonging to the former classes, to let him know their names and addresses as soon as possible.

Bellevue Happenings

Oscar North is building an addition to his house.

Herman Varley has moved into the house lately vacated by James Naylor.

Friday was pay-day, and things have been fairly brisk about here since.

The Walden Bros. are busy this week building a car shed for J. M. Windsor.

James Fisher, after being away for some time, returned to camp again this week.

Miss Orr, of the teaching staff, has been under the weather for the past few days.

The members of the Bellevue church choir held a social in the church on Thursday.

Quite a number of Bellevue sports took in the ball game at Frank on Saturday afternoon.

The well-known Dave Walker, better known as "Shorty," is busy painting and decorating the hospital.

Miss Hattie M. Bone, of Macleod, has arrived here and taken up her duties as teacher in the local school, in place of Miss Boyce, who has resigned.

Rev. W. T. Young, of Frank, occupied the pulpit of the local church on Sunday last, in the absence of Rev. Mr. Cook, who officiated at Fernie.

William Fisher, junior, received slight injuries on Monday last while following his occupation as driver in No. 1 mine, having his shoulder dislocated.

Stealing thorough-bred poultry seems to be a hobby in Bellevue at the present. Andrew Goodwin lost a valuable rooster and two chickens on Sunday night.

The furniture and fittings of the Maple Leaf hotel were disposed of by public auction on Tuesday and fetched high prices. Gus Neidig, of Lethbridge, was the auctioneer.

Major and Mrs. Hay, of the Salvation Army, Calgary, were in camp on Wednesday night and held a meeting in the Methodist church, which was fairly well attended.

Some of the regular contributions to the government safe were up again this week before W. J. McGowan, J. P., of Frank, and were fined the usual amount and costs and let go to finish their spree.

A number of the boys now in training at Pincher Creek, were up last week and to visit friends. This will probably be their last visit before proceeding to Calgary or the front.

Miss Boyce, who has been a member of the local teaching staff for some time, has resigned her connection with the local institution. Miss Boyce takes the best wishes of the Bellevue children with her and it is thought that her place will be hard to fill.

RHEUMATISM QUICKLY CURED.
"My sister's husband had an attack of rheumatism in his arm," writes a well known resident of Newton, Iowa. "I gave him a bottle of Chamberlain's Liniment which he applied to his arm and on the next morning the rheumatism was gone." For chronic muscular rheumatism you will find nothing better than Chamberlain's Liniment. Sold by all dealers.

The Fernie District Ledger has been reduced to a four-page sheet.

Fred Parker came up from Pincher on Thursday and is staying for several days.

Ernest Blais came up from Pincher on Saturday last and spent the week with his parents.

Mrs. J. C. Boudreau returned home from Calgary on Saturday morning last, after spending several weeks with friends in the cow town.

Last Thursday's Coleman Bulletin arrived in Frank Monday night, containing account of things that never happened before publication date.

A basket social and concert will be held in the Methodist church on May 18th. The proceeds will go to the gymnasium funds, which are considerably behind. Come and have a good time.

A Dance will be held in the Union hotel on Monday evening, May 17th, under the auspices of the Frank football club. The committee in charge intend to make this one of the most enjoyable events held in Frank for some time. Gentlemen will be barred out unless they come through with a dollar; but come on, ladies! A first-class orchestra will be in attendance.

Owing to the nature of the weather last week end, the scheduled football game had to be cancelled; but the boys took advantage of their passes and came down, accompanied by Lieutenant Henderson and Lance Corporal Davies. The weather cleared up somewhat in the forenoon and it was then decided to try and play the game. The C. M. R's, having left four of their players home, secured the services of H. Varley, T. and J. Duggale and Jordan, of Bellevue. The teams lined up as follows:

C. M. R's—Paton, goal; Davies, Dugdale, Longworth, Sloan, Radford, Dugdale, Robertson, Jordan, Varley and Parker.
Frank—Hilton, goal; Marples, Griffiths, Jepson, Tristram, Kennedy, Elburn, Love, Black, Bruce and Johnson. Referee, H. Campbell; Umpire, Patterson and Stone.

The Bohemian band rendered several selections in front of the Union hotel and accompanied the teams to the ground, where they played several lively pieces as the game proceeded. The ground was in a heavy condition, and both teams played a hard game. The game resulted in score of 4 to 1 for the C. M. R's.

BRAVE BELGIUM NOW PLACES HER

FAITH IN JUSTICE OF THE WORLD

IS UNIFORMITY THE BRAND OF INFAMY RESTS

Belgian Government Asserts that the Neutrality of the Ruined Country was not Forfeited Before the Commencement of the War, as Has Been Alleged by the Germans

The Belgian government has issued a protest against the German allegation that documents found in the hands of the Germans in Belgium had forfeited her neutrality before the outbreak of the war. After receiving the German ultimatum, the British and Belgian military officers in 1906 and 1912 had been assured by the German minister, Count von Helldorf, and Lord Grey, the British foreign minister, that "reference only in the situation of the country to the fact of neutrality had already been violated," the Belgian protest says.

"The German government," it declared, "has not been able to declare on its honor that 'not only was it not the case, but it was not the intention of the two governments, neither of the two governments, to make any advances or propositions to the Belgian government at the convention. Moreover, the minister of Great Britain at Brussels, who alone could contract engagements in her behalf, never intervened in these conversations, and the whole Belgian government, and the British government, on oath that 'no conclusion' arising from these conversations was ever brought before the cabinet or even later before one single member of it.

"The demands which the Germans discovered give evidence: of all this, their meaning is perfectly clear, provided that no part of them is either garbled or suppressed, in order to maintain the appearance and again our government, faithfully reflecting Belgian uprightness, cannot but continue its duty to insist once more on the spoiler of Belgium, the brand of infamy, his only legitimate title."

"It also takes the opportunity of declaring in answer to allegations, which have been made, that the 'First-Before the declaration of war, no French force, even of the smallest kind, was in Belgium, and no trustworthy evidence was produced to contradict this affirmation."

"Second—Not only did Belgium refuse the offer of military help offered by the French government, but powers, but after the declaration of war she earnestly solicited the protection of her guarantors.

We are told that the kaiser kept the peace for forty-three years. True—just waiting for this stroke at world domination.

Mr. Hubbard's general observations on the war for which the kaiser is responsible are pity genes, and, although they will - of be palatable to Germans etc., seem to hit the War, runs one of them, as a corrective for industrial jealousy, would be a good thing. It would give us a chance of managing a kindergarten with a whip, or introducing faith, hope and charity into the business of the world.

The one infant of modern commerce is to bestow a benefit. The one intent of the modern business is to give and destroy. Commerce stands for help and happiness, war symbols suffering and death.

War destroys your market, limits your territory, lessens your prospect, and ruins your future. In the last three years life is jumbled, tumbled mass of fears and tears, in the dust and confusion of the world.

Nero, the fiddling deed, with his carelessness in the use of fire, never was so much despised as the man who, in the career, won one-half that destroyed when the war's roar: applied the torch.

For Empire Federation

Sir George Perle: Says Dominions and Motherland Must Get Closer Together

In a recent speech at the Royal Colonial Institute, London, Sir George Perle said:

"The empire is a living thing. We are not used to such ideas. A very young English citizen because we have been talking of it for years."

He pointed out the importance of Canada's relation to the empire in the present crisis, pointing out that the British Empire was the only power he believed in the democratic system which was at stake. "But while Canada was a part of the empire," he said, "it has never as yet been able to make its voice heard."

"I do not know how many of you are acquainted with the different parts of the empire," he said, "but I am certain that there is no one more loyal than the people of the British Empire."

While believing Britain had the right to demand that the dominions were forced to live with her over seas, the termination of a lease if that termination is not in the best interests of the community. It seems to me we must get closer together. Otherwise, according to the law, we will have to wait a long time when we will gradually drift apart."

Mr. H. J. It must not be forgotten that submarines are vulnerable types of warships, actually, and they are easily sunk in collision, and by sea mines attractive to the enlisted men of the fleet. ### The Way to Socialism

Tune: "Tipperary."

Written by Ellis O. Jones in the Appeal to Reason.

Up to big Toronto came a workman one day;
He wondered how to get a job to keep the wolf away.
He heard a fellow on the corner talking to a crowd, Then this worker got excited and he shouted right out loud:

It's a long way to Socialism,
It's a long way to go.
It's a long way to Socialism,
And the bestest scheme you know.
Good-bye, Competition, Good-bye, things under,
It's a long, long way to Socialism, But my heart's right there.

The speaker kept on telling how the present system works,
Of how it robs the workman and then rewards the shirks,
Of interest, rent and profit and of all the evil plan, Then this worker jumped upon a box and shouted like a man:

It's the wrong way in Capitalism, It's the wrong way to go.
It's the wrong way in Capitalism,
It's the poorest way, you know.
Good-bye, Adulteration, Child labor as well.
It's the wrong, wrong way in Capitalism, Much worse than hell.

This worker took to stunts, making everything he found He saw that every socialist argument was sound, And thus it was that he became more zealous every day,
And when he saw a workman, he'd speak right up and say:

It's a short way to Socialism,
It's a short way to go.
It's a short way to Socialism,
But the only way, you know.
If the workers get together And use their ballots right, It's a short, short way to Socialism And Justice and Right.

Blairmore, Alta., Fri., May 7, 1915

The editor has been somewhat embarrased this week. He received a second letter from an Ontario divine soliciting his aid in introducing him to a suitable partner for life. He felt at first disposed to turn down the appeal with a ruthless contempt, but our foreman reminded him that many clergymen were indifferently mated, while others were subjected to their pastoral spouses to so many subtle assaults upon their over-generous natures that the Ontario divine deserved sympathy. The arguments seemed good, so the editor drew up a list of candidates whose virtues have been tabulated on the principle of points, of which the following is a summary:

Miss P.....	96
Miss D.....	96
Miss G.....	94
Mrs. Mc (Blairmore),	91
Miss F.....	84
Miss Mc. (Frank).....	82
Miss M. (Bellevue).....	82
Miss Mc. (Frank).....	82
Miss M. (Blairmore),	80
Mrs. M. (Blairmore).....	78
Miss H. (Blairmore).....	23

The qualifications of the lady must include: industry, equality of disposition and average good looks, and be able to dress with a refined sense of color and have a preference for outdoor exercises.
The editor is of opinion that Blairmore or Frank have a sporting chance of winning the prize. He has written to Ontario, asking, in the event of being successful, when the goods would require to be shipped.

Mail Order House Failure

Many of our farmers, especially in the more progressive communities in the west, are beginning to realize that their true interests are best served when they support their own country town. They have learned to resist the temptation of mail order catalogues and to give their cash business instead to their own local stores. Not only their own experience, but more especially the experience of broader farmers in the United States, has taught them that the inevitable outcome of sending their cash orders away to mail order houses is the degeneration of their own country town, and the decrease in value of their own farm property.

Perhaps, to the fact that our farmers are beginning to think along these lines, is due the recent failure of the firm of Christie-Grant Company, Limited, Winnipeg, a mail order house that leapt like a flame into prominence for a brief month. We understand that 625 creditors attended the general meeting held some little while back, and even this did not represent the total number of creditors. It appears that it is the intention of the heaviest creditors, who were in a fair way to lose large sums of money over the venture, to continue the business until their accounts are paid. The spring catalogue, which has been mailed out to a very large extent, is expected to bring in business that will help to liquidate their losses.

If farmers are beginning to learn the lesson that they must support their country town in order to advance their own best interests, it is of very great importance that retail merchants should take immediate steps to offer the public a more efficient service than the best they have hitherto offered. If the country merchant is supported by his neighbor's cash business, as well as his credit business, there is no reason why he should not produce a service equal to the best that any mail order house can offer, both as regards the price and quality of his goods.

May Rod and Gun

Rod and Gun for May, published by W. J. Taylor, Limited, Woodstock, Ont., is out with an interesting list of contents. Edward T. Martin contributes an article "Have the Pigeons Returned" dealing with the possible recurrence of the passenger pigeon, which has been pronounced extinct by as great an authority as Prof. Hornaday of New York. "A Ram of the Stormy Night" is a Western story of a ram when its pursuers regarded as a creature of the evil one.
How its propensity for vanishing into this air was finally explained and the ram secured is most entertainingly related by Ray Giddings.
Other stories and the regular departments combine to make an exceptionally interesting number of this well known sportsman's magazine.

Summer School

For Teachers

The policy of the Department of Education regarding the development of instruction in the practical arts and in Science and Agriculture involves (a) financial aid to the local school boards to assist them in providing the necessary equipment and facilities, (b) financial recognition for the teachers who secure the necessary qualifications and carry on the work in their schools in a satisfactory manner, and (c) provision of opportunities whereby the teachers of the Province may have an equal chance to work successfully while at the same time conserving the best standards for the work of the school as a whole.

During the present two summers the Summer School for Teachers held under the direction of the Department of Education at the University of Alberta, has provided this opportunity. In 1913, eighty teachers took advantage of the courses offered. In 1914, one hundred and fifty-five teachers attended. The same year a special series of courses was organized for the school inspectors to enable them to co-operate with the teachers in the field in the development of the work.

The announcement giving full particulars regarding the Summer School for 1915 is now being sent to all teachers in the Province. A copy has been received at this office today. It is evident from the announcement that the Department of Education is finding the Summer School an effective instrument for the stimulation and supplementary training of the teachers. The service of over twenty specialists has been engaged for instruction purposes. Over one hundred and fifty-five teachers have applied already for admission.

This year the organization of the courses of instruction has been elaborated so as to be in harmony with the regulations regarding instruction in the special subjects as indicated in Technical Education Bulletin No. 1, issued last November. A series of courses, in each case involving two summer's work, is offered leading to a special elementary certificate in—

- (a) Science—Agriculture, Gardening and Nature Study.
- (b) Household Arts—Household Science, Management and Art.
- (c) Art—Art Methods, Design, Drawing and Painting.
- (d) Manual Training—Paper and Cardboard Work, Textile and Basket Work, Clay Modelling and Penmanship.
- (e) Woodwork—Shop Work, Design and Mechanical Drawing.
- (f) Physical Training—Strathcona Drill, Organized Play, Musical Games and Folk Dancing.

This year, for the first time, a special series of courses will be offered for those teachers who are responsible for teaching Science and Agriculture in the high schools. While a number of those responsible for such instruction are science specialists, the great majority in the towns and villages have not specialized in either Science or Agriculture in their college course. These teachers find themselves distinctly at a disadvantage in approaching these subjects especially from the practical side.

The courses offered involve (a) a double course in Agriculture for one summer for those who are science specialists, (b) a group of courses involving two summers' work for those who are not science specialists. The first summer will be devoted to Agriculture and Gardening, Methods in Zoology and Methods in Botany; the second summer to Agriculture, including experimental and demonstration plotwork, Methods in Physics and Methods in Chemistry.

This year a seminar, under the chairmanship of the Director of the Summer School, will be organized for the high school teachers and agricultural instructors for the careful consideration of the general problem of instruction in science and agriculture in secondary schools.

The Poor Fly

The poor fly! He does not seem to have a friend on earth, for everybody wants to swat him, or set sticky traps for his little feet. The fly is the greatest scavenger, and should be treated with love and kindness. Perhaps he will then keep his nose out of the butter. We should train and educate the fly to be polite and discreet. We should clothe his little naked feet in antiseptic slippers, and require him to take out a license for peddling filth. We should feed him on sugar, butter and healthful food so that he will not have to go out into the lonesome backyards and rustle his living in garbage cans. We should also place temptation beyond his reach by destroying all filth. By doing this it is probable that in the course of a few generations, we can make the fly like unto a little bird that will sing sweet lullabies to us and be welcome in every home. God made the fly and there are none of them in hell as far as we could learn in our travels. Be kind to the little fellow, and they may yet reform.—R. T. Lowery.

man, is quoted in a recent casualty list.

Periscope Inventor Dead

Morgan Robertson Was Also Noted Short Story Writer

Morgan Robertson, author of the best-known short story, "The Submarine Disaster," the inventor of the periscope, died recently at Atlantic City.

Mr. Robertson was sixty-five years old. The periscope was first conceived by Mr. Robertson in his book, "The Submarine Disaster," when the story was first published in 1900. The details of the Holland Submarine Co. sent for the author and asked him to be considered the scheme practical.

"Of course I do," he replied. "Here is a model of it which I have already patented."

Officials of the company were so impressed that they purchased the invention for $50,000.

Some Value of Pure-bred Stock

Get Away From Narrowing Influences and Study Farm Problems With a Wider View

The breed of pure-bred stock has to keep up with the times in its particular line and this necessity tends to broaden his horizon. He tends the breeders' associations and the institutions and every progressive meeting which pertains to his work and in doing so he rubs elbows with the best men in the business and learns of their methods and experiences. He perhaps takes his herd to the fair to compare with better herds. He sees where he is making mistakes and corrects his errors. He mixes with his fellows and he feels that he is one of them and the friends he meets all help him to get out of any rut that he may have fallen into. One of the main drawbacks to the farmer's life is that it is too isolated. The breeder of pure-bred stock gets away from the narrowing influence which he is under and studies all his problems with a broader view than does his neighbor.

The raising of pure-bred live stock seems to perfect upon the man himself. He is doing good work and it makes him a better man. There are pure-bred men just the same as there are scrub men. There are pure-bred men who are just the same as there you when you need it most. The pure-

Ten Minutes per Cow

Keep Dairy Records, Which Will

Bring Illuminating Results

In many dairy sections in Canada it is quite possible, judging from figures, to find a herd of cows producing milk at a feed cost of only sixty cents, or less per hundred pounds, while on a farm two miles away milk costs perhaps ninety cents or more per hundred for feed. And on that farm where milk costs more, may often be found, some dairy records, and the farmer will find dairy feed, good evidence, etc. Other records may be lacking, while the dairy judgment, good quality.

Solid and lasting success is attained both easier and quicker by the intelligent use of dairy records, this is just common sense selection of paying costs, instead of the indiscriminate boarding of "just cows." The individual cow of good promise is quickly and unerringly spotted by the use of simple dairy records and fed for better production at less cost, while the antique souvenir, useless as a profit-maker, is preferred because it lacks ability to record milk at a responsible cost for feed.

The man who raises his own calves can take quick action in building up a good herd, for he keeps only his own records, and he knows what he has got. The man who sells, often sells his best cows for a song (this is the day for the "cheap" cow, the "champion cow") just because he does not know what good cow quality he has. The record would have informed him.

The keeper of ten minutes per cow per month spent in recording will put surprising, most illuminating results before him. The negative of great possibilities at present dormant in many dairy cows. While the dairy records are not a cure

Canada and the United States continue to burn up created wealth at an abnormal rate. In the first three months of the present year these two countries had fire losses totalling $51,928,000. Last year the two countries had fire losses of over $235,000,000. The regrettable part is that seventy-five per cent of these fires are preventable.

One of our local "braves" got himself into a quarry on Sunday last, when he undertook to engineer the construction of a footbridge across a small creek over which to transport a young lady friend. All boasting of his bridge-building ability passed as naught when the structure collapsed beneath the lady's weight, and he blushing had to accompany her hurriedly to her home. Experience is after all the best teacher!

What might have been a very serious accident occurred on Sunday afternoon about two miles west of Melnnis Lumber Co. camp, on the main highway. Four autos were travelling down the grade at a great speed, when the leader, in rounding a curve, noticed a huge boulder in the road. The brakes were applied, but in order to avoid a crash the car was turned out towards the edge of the embankment where it became overbalanced and started to slide. Fortunately the machine brought up against the one only stump about twenty feet down the bank, where it stood on its beam ends, otherwise the car with its four occupants would have been precipitated to the base, about two hundred feet almost directly below. The escape was a miracle, and the occupants of the vehicle resolved a scary they will not soon forget. The car was afterwards raised to the road and sped off under its own power to Michel.

Richard Lyons, alias Payne, former Manitoba militiaman, was on Tuesday found guilty of the murder of Roy Blair, a Calgary brakeman, whom he shot when discovered beating his way on a freight train a year ago. "Buy him fifty dollars' worth of cigars," said the vice-president, "and boll it."

The St. John's, Nfld., Trade Review says: "The Prohibition Resolutions introduced in the Assembly last week by Mr. Hickman, came up for discussion on Wednesday evening. During the two preceding days, the anti-liquor people in the city were extremely active, and public meetings, of the usual denunciatory order, were held and largely attended. On Tuesday afternoon, there was a woman's parade through the city—silk in carriages, and fusian on foot. If the object in view was to display the 'horrible examples' of man's depravity, the object was undoubtedly attained. The 'mere man,' who saw his parading prerogative wrested from him for the first time in the history of the town, went about his work as usual, or stood along the sidewalk viewing the innovation with stolid indifference."
